

Meeting of the Young Daughters of Wisdom-Europe

Immersed in Inculturality

Anne and Josiane

According to the tradition established in recent years in the Congregation, the younger Daughters of Wisdom meet by continents occasionally. The objective is to get to know each other, to create links, to learn to appreciate "difference" as an asset and possibly be able to realize something together.

For their third meeting, the younger Sisters of Europe, six French Sisters with Christine a newly professed and two Italian Sisters travelled to Romsey, Great Britain to encounter the two English Sisters. This meeting occurred March 9 to 12, 2014.

In a context...

- Where the presence of Catholics are in minority
- Where driving at the left invites to change one's spatial landmarks.

The warm welcome of our English Sisters and the common search for Wisdom fostered the feeling of being "home", even outside our own country.

Inculturality is at the heart of this group experience and invites us to be Sisters of each other beyond cultural boundaries in order to work together and to dare face the future with hope.
